

Week 3 Assignment – Mid-Course Feedback

EDUC X 425.04 - 407004 Instructional Technologies for TESOL Classrooms

UCLA Extension

Earle Oda

April 1, 2026

WEEK 3 Assignment

Mid-Course Feedback

After only three lessons, I feel as though I have learned as much or more in this course so far, than I have in the first three lessons of any of the courses I have taken. I probably most enjoyed learning about the technological tools out there, especially in Weeks 1 and 2. I had never used ChatGPT prior to this course. Nor have I used DeepL or Vocaroo. The assignments for those were educational.

The course content is clear and easy to understand. I like the mixture of videos, informative documents, TED Talks, etc. I take notes of everything presented so that I can go back to them. I know I will not remember everything. The weekly assignments and expectations are also clear. The assignments that tie back to readings, lectures, and videos make them more meaningful. Learning a new tool is a good feeling and that is what I expected in this course. There is a lot of material in the course overview. It's a little time consuming. Maybe some of it could be parsed out. However, as a whole, it is very useful and manageable.

I enjoy most and probably remember most monologues and TED talks from speakers who speak passionately about novel concepts. Again, I like the diversity of resources presented. I am satisfied with this course. I think if you constantly think about how the content will benefit future teachers like me, it will be most appropriate. I look forward to the remaining weeks and learning about more tools that are available.